- The prices of the equity may fluctuate significantly as they depend on general economic and political circumstances.
- Emerging markets are less established than developed markets and therefore involve higher risks, particularly market, liquidity, currency risks and interest rate risks, and the risk of higher volatility.
- The value of investments in bonds and other debt securities or derivative instruments may rise or fall sharply as interest rates fluctuate.
- To the extent that the Sub-Fund invests a large portion of its assets in a limited number of industries, sectors, or issuers, or within a limited geographical area, it can be riskier than a fund that invests more broadly.
- Investments in bonds are subject to the risk that the issuer cannot meet their obligations in terms of paying the interest and / or redeeming the principal on maturity (credit risk).
- Mortgage Backed Securities and Asset-backed securities, are usually issued in a number of different classes depending on the riskiness of the underlying assets assessed. The higher the risk contained in the class, the more the asset-backed security pays by way of income.
- Certain high-yielding bonds are very speculative and involve comparatively greater risks than higher quality securities they also have a higher incidence of default and they are less liquid.
- Convertible Contingent Bonds (Cocos) are a form of contingent hybrid securities that behave like debt securities in normal circumstances but which either convert to equity securities or have write-down. A write-down means that some or all the principal amount of the (Cocos) bond will be written down.
- In periods of market instability the Fund may be required to realise assets at a price that does not reflect their intrinsic value
- The Fund may invest in instruments, such as derivatives, that might not fulfill their obligations in the future, exposing the relevant sub-funds to financial losses in the process.
- There is a risk that agreements, securities lending, repurchase agreements and derivatives techniques are terminated due, for instance, to bankruptcy. A sub-fund may be required to cover any losses incurred.
- If the Sub-Fund invests in other UCITS / UCIs, it may incur a second layer of investment fees, which will further erode any investment gains.
- The integration in the investment process of ESG and sustainability factors with wider monitoring and engagement activities, may have an impact on the value of investments and, therefore, on returns.
